FORT:LA Witch House Tour 1 of 18

You can celebrate Halloween all month long with the host of events happening in and around Los Angeles. Whether you're looking for scares to share with friends, an education event for the kids or a whimsical experience for the whole family, there is something happening in town for you in October.

Our round-up of 2021 Halloween events includes movie screenings, walking with wolves, architectural tours, shopping events and movies, as well as a haunted hike and even a costume picnic for your pooch. Mark your calendars with the events listed below, and find more on our online calendar.

Guide Map for Halloween Events Worth Haunting

Friends of Residential Treasures: Los Angeles

launched in 2020 with a series of self-guided architectural tours that folks could enjoy while social distancing. On October 13, the award-winning non-profit will release its “Witch Houses 2: Fairy Tales, Castles and Cottages” map, the second annual installment of a self-guided spooky home tour curated by Amber Benson, the author of books like The Witches of Echo Park, who remains beloved for her role as Tara Maclay on Buffy the Vampire Slayer. Coinciding with the tour map, FORT:LA is releasing Abodes of Grimm, an audio collection of fairy tale passages to play while you drive to your destinations. This year, they’re also unveiling Hancock Park Howl, a walking tour guide to 12 spooky homes available to supporters with a donation.
