Time Out says

After last year's self-guided tour of houses fit for a witch, Friends of Residential Treasures: Los Angeles is back with another map of storybook-style homes.

Amber Benson, the Witches of Echo Park novelist and a mid-series regular on Buffy the Vampire Slayer, has once again curated a guide to five castles and cottages, spread out between Los Feliz and West Hollywood.

The actual route and selections will become available on October 13 (it's free if you sign up on FORT:LA's site). To be clear, the map won't grant you access inside of each home, but it will help you set an itinerary for gawking at them from the sidewalk (and you can pair it with a selection of Grimm's fairy tales readings).

If you're looking to extend your architecture tour, you can also tack on the new Hancock Park Howl, a walking tour of a dozen spooky houses in the neighborhood ($75 donation).
